A RUSH!

Seems to Seize the Statesmen

The Senate Proceedings To-day Are of More than Usual Interest and Importance.

The Capitol Talk About Appointments and Nominees in the Hoosier State.

WASHINGTON.

A Bit of Gossip From the Senate Chamber.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—It is probable the removal of the remains of Chief Justice Chase will take place during the last days of September or early in October.

The senate committee on foreign affairs, had under consideration yesterday at its regular meeting, the extradition treaty recently signed by the representatives of the United States with Great Britain. There seems but little chance of the treaty being considered by the senate at this session.

The chair presented a proclamation by the governor of Utah, relative to the violation of the marriage laws in that territory. Referred to the committee on territories.

Mr. Hoar asked leave to report from the committee on library, a preamble and resolution for the appointment of a committee of five senators (the presiding officer to be one) to consider, formulate and report at the next session of congress, a plan for properly celebrating at the capitol of the republic the centennial anniversary, in 1889, of the adoption of the constitution, and the four hundreth anniversary in 1892, of the discovery of America, by Christopher Columbus. Mr. Hale objected and the resolution went over.

The injunction of secresy having been removed, the statement is made that the charges against a number of Indiana postmasters who were removed were purely political, and they recommended the confirmation of their successors.

Indiana democrats say a motion will be entered to reconsider the vote in the Hanlon case, so that he, not being rejected when congress adjourns, may be reappointed with more propriety than otherwise.

The following Indiana postmasters were appointed yesterday: John H. Neherr at Reffsburg, Wells county, vice Harrison Burgess, deceased; Wm. B. Gillis at Waterman, Parke county.

The president sent the following nominations to the senate to-day: George J. A. Jenks, of Pennsylvania, solicitor general; Bradley M. Thomas, receiver of public moneys, of East Saginaw, Mich.

President Cleveland has nominated Alvey Adee, of the District of Columbia, to be second assistant secretary of state; E. H. S. Pratt, of Alabama, to be minister to Persia, and George E. Lorenz to be postmaster at Toledo.

The indications continue favorable for the adjournment of congress without day by next Monday. Should the president, however, decide neither to sign nor veto the oleomargerine bill the friends of the measure will seek to postpone the adjournment until next Tuesday on which day it will become a law without the presidental approval.

LAFAYETTE.

Military Encampment Notes—The Prize Drills.

LAFAYETTE, July 29.—The Shephard Light infantry, of Indianapolis, last evening closed the militia drill for the $500 prize. The awards will be made Monday. The Indianapolis Light infantry drilled at nine o'clock this morning for the $1,000 free-for-all prize. Their competitors were the Jackson, Michigan, Guards, company F., First Kentucky legion, Richardson guards, of Indianapolis, and Taylorville, Illinois, Guards. They drilled in the order named. Governor Gray arrived to-day. It is thought that he will create a breeze over the fact that on the encampment gambling devices of every kind are run openly and unmolested.

THE LATE NED BUNTLINE.

The Life Romance of One of the Greatest Romancers.

"Ned Buntline" is dead. What reader of the sensational, hair-raising, blood-curdling penny-awful story papers has not heard of him. Little wonder that he did the work through which he was known, for his career outromanced any of this fictions. It can be but briefly noticed here.

THE LATE E. Z. C. JUDSON.

He was Edward Z. C. Judson, of the great Christian missionary family of that name. His father was a Philadelphia lawyer, in which quiet city this restless spirit was born. His father intended him for a legal light, but the youngster ran away to sea in a ship going around the Horn. On his return home his father endeavored to show him the career that the study of Blackstone might bring him. But without avail; then, making a virtue of the necessity, his father appenticed his wayward boy to the United States ship Macedonian, obtaining for him a midshipman's position. His fellow-midshipmen, in their youthful would-be aristocracy, refused to associate or mess with him on the ground that he had served as a common sailor and was not their equal. He certainly was not, for he proved himself very soon their superior, challenging them all to fight, one after the other, and coming off victorious in each contest. One of his antagonists is now an admiral in the navy. After that there was no more talk about equality. While serving in the navy he rescued the crew of a boat which had been run down by a ferryboat in New York harbor. But it was on land, not on sea, that young Judson's most adventurous period was passed. As an Indian fighter and as a scout in the great civil war he became justly famous. On the plains he met with Capt. Jack Crawford, who regards Ned Buntline as the bravest man he has ever met, while as to his marksmanship there can be no dispute. On shipboard he broke a small bottle suspended from the yard arm with one shot and cut the cord that had held the bottle with the shot following, and years after, in a trial of skill with Buffalo Bill, Texas Jack and several Indian chiefs he took the first prize for quick, sure aim. His adventures among the Indians would fill volumes. He was a great admirer of the Indian character, though he took no stock in "Cooper's Indians," as he called them.

Ned kept himself constantly before the public in some sensational way. He was a leader in the Know-Nothing movement. Was arrested as one of the principals in the Forrest Macready Astor place riots in New York. He was tried before Judge Charles P. Daly, whom Ned had been attacking for years. The judge magnanimously gave him but one year in the penitentiary. He had already begun to fire the youthful heart with his Munchausen tales, and this he continued to his death. No one can estimate the number of stories he wrote. His income from this source averaged $20,000 a year. During the war he was arrested and confined in Fort Lafayette for overstaying his parole. He had tried nearly everything in his time and it was to be expected he would try the stage. This he did, in company with Buffalo Bill, for whom he wrote a play. Their first appearance was in St. Louis, and as it was new business for them, both became stage struck. Buffalo Bill forgot his part, Ned became boggled, and the play ended in a roaring farce.

Of late years Buntline was living on his farm at Stamford, N. Y., where he leaves his fourth wife and a family. He was a model of muscular vigor, as his picture indicates, up to the day of his death.

DEATH OF ISRAEL LEE.

A Sketch of the Life of a Good Citizen and Friend.

At an early hour this morning, after a lingering illness of about eight months, occurred the death of Mr. Israel Lee, master car builder for the Pennsylvania company at this place. Mr. Lee was born in Berks county, Pa., on the 6th day of May, 1822, and died July 29, 1886. He was married at Crestline, Ohio, in 1854, to Miss Rachael J. Leek, who died in March, 1880 in this city. To them were born three sons, all of whom survive them. Maurace M., now a machinist in the Pittsburg shops at this place, Jeffry J., an assistant foreman at the same company's carpenter shops, and Charles W., also an employe of the company.

In 1881 he married Miss Sophie C. Grout, of Adams county, Ind., to whom were born two children, Arthur H., who died in infancy, and Mary L., still living.

Early in 1855 Mr. Lee began his labors for the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad company, at Crestline, Ohio, and in the fall of 1857 was transferred to Fort Wayne as foreman of car inspectors.

In 1862 he was promoted to general foreman of the companies works at Chicago, and about five years later he was again transferred to Fort Wayne as assistant to Mr. Wm. Wadington, after whose death in 1871, Mr. Lee became master car builder for the company at this city, which position he held at the time of his death.

He was a member of the Masonic fraternity as well as that of the I. O. O. F. As a husband and father there was none more devoted and kind than he. It was always his province to render to his superior obedience and submission; to his equals, courtesy and affability; to his inferiors, kindness and condescension.

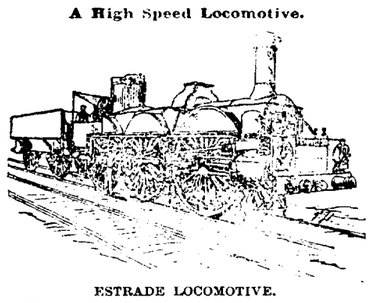
The funeral will take place from the house on next Sunday at 2 o'clock, thence to the Christian chapel, of which church he was a member.

SECRETARY MANNING.

ALBANY, July 29.—Secretary Manning, accompanied by his son Fred, left by the ten o'clock train this morning for Watch Hill. He did not use his cane in walking from the depot to the dining room car, a distance of about seventy feet.

His right arm rested on Mrs. Manning's arm. Mrs. Manning moved slightly in advance of her husband and guided his short and feeble steps. Those who saw him remarked upon his feeble appearance.

A High Speed Locomotive.



ESTRADE LOCOMOTIVE.

Civil engineers in our sister republic across the ocean have long been puzzling their brains over a locomotive that can be propelled easily and safely at a speed of seventy-five miles an hour. M. Estrade has designed one which is about completed and will shortly be tested.

The illustration gives a general idea of its construction. The principal dimensions are as follows: Total length, 33 feet; width between longitudinals, 4 feet; diameter of the wheels, 8½ feet; weight of engine, empty, 38 tons; weight of engine, loaded, 42 tons.

French engineers are in raptures over this machine, and one of them says:

It is impossible not to be struck by the character of grandeur and power of this beautiful engine, with its six driving wheels, of one diameter in common of 8½ feet, mounted upon three coupled axles. The inventor's idea, it will be remembered, consists in generalizing the use of wheels of large diameter, in the extension, to high speeds, of the coupling of the axles of the motor, in the adoption of a new and well studied style of double suspension.

It does not appear doubtful that it will be possible to reach the high speeds of from seventy-two to seventy-eight miles, for which this locomotive has been constructed. The equal size of the locomotive wheels, and of those of the cars, will, doubtless, in a great measure diminish the resistance of friction, and permit of gaining in speed. It must be noted that the fore axle of the locomotive, although coupled with the others, is provided with hinged grease boxes. On properly slowing up, then, it does not seem that it will be impossible to turn curves of the usual radius. This granted, we can appreciate what peculiar services will be rendered by rolling stock of this kind in the India mail service and on the great rectilinear lines of Russia, Asia and America, and everywhere, in fact, where it is desirable to cross with exceeding rapidity great desert spaces between centers of population.

LONDON, July 29.—The following appointments are announced:

First lord of the administration, Lord George Hamilton.

Lord high chancellor, Baron Halesbury.

Secretary for India, Right Hon. Frederick Arthur Stanley.

Prime minister and first Lord of the treasury, Marquis Salisbury.

Lord lieutenant of Ireland, Marquis Londonderry.

IRISH PRESS COMMENT.

DUBLIN, July 29.—The United-Ireland to-day says: "The truce with the landlords is shattered, but the Irish people have not the least intention to estrange the English masses. It would be impossible to produce a more eloquent example of policy ramming English rule down Irish throats than is afforded by the Marquis of Salisbury's appointment as the Irish viceroy of the Marquis of Londonderry inheriting as he does, the blood and name of the cut-throat and hideous Castlereagh.

The Freeman's Journal says: The appointment of Lord Londonderry viceroy of Ireland and of Sir Michael Hicks Beach chief secretary, is ominious or coercian. Irishmen must be prepared for this. The loyalist press is delighted over the appointment of Lord Londonderry to lord lieutenancy. The city is placarded with appeals to Irishmen to assemble in their thousands to make the greatest demonstration possible on the occasion of the departure of Lord Lieutenant Aberdeen and his wife from Ireland next week.

CORN.

The Market Excited and Prices Away Up.

CHICAGO, July 29.—There was another excited opening to-day. While the official close last night was at 45c for September, it sold up to 46¾ before dark. This morning early there were rumored sales on the curb as high as 48c, but they could not be located. September was opened officially at 47c, though at the same moment it was selling at 46¾. The prices brought out such free offerings that values soon fell to 46¾.

Fire.

DODGEVILLE, Wis., July 29.—Gleeson & McCorvilles' agricultural implement warehouse burned yesterday. Loss, $15,000.

CHOICE BITS.

The News That is Culled for the "Sentinel" Readers.

The resignation of Benedict Burns, as city clerk of Bluffton, was not accepted until he straightens up his clerical accounts.

The Indiana trotting and pacing horse breeder's association will hold their annual race meeting at Indianapolis on August 3, 4 and 5. Large amounts in stake money are offered.

Ex-Senator and Mrs. McDonald have left Indianapolis for the east. Mrs. McDonald will remain at Deer Park for the present, as Mr. McDonald has important business in Washington just now. Later in the season they will spend some time at Saratoga.

The Bluffton gas well project is liable to end in litigation. The sub-contractors have abandoned the well at a depth of about 1,120 feet. It seems the contractor, Mr. Stewart, had no binding contract on them to carry out the agreement between himself and the stockholders.

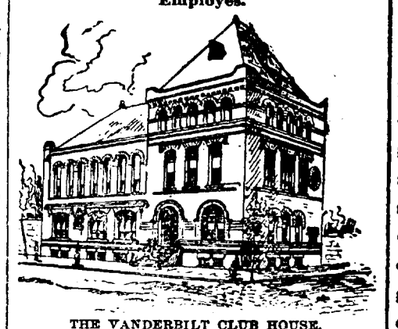
Mr. I. Gushard was elected one of the commissioners of Wabash county in the year 1884 and will take his office this fall. He has just renounced republicanism and joined the prohibition party. He believes the republican party has outlived its usefulness and thinks it a sinking ship.

Hon. Cyrus B. Tulley, of Columbia City, has concluded to give up the practice of law and partially retire from active life. He has sold his office to Mr. W. A. Davis, who will take possession August 2d, 1886. Mr. Tulley has been a leading member of the Whitley county bar for seventeen years past.

The republican assessor of Indianapolis made his returns last Wednesday and they were so unjust that they were set aside and another appraisement was ordered, and will likely be completed when it is too late for this years taxation. Gov. Porter was one of the complainants. He paid a short time ago $5,800 for his residence and it was assessed at $7,500.

A RAILROAD CLUB HOUSE.

The Gift of Cornelius Vanderbilt to His Employes.



THE VANDERBILT CLUB HOUSE.

The number of railroad accidents due to the unfitness of railroad employes through unsteady habits will of course never be known, yet it is a well understood fact among railroad managers that in the major part of the accidents due to negligence, investigation showed incidentally, though the fact was considered hardly worthy of notice, that the unfortunate employe "had not been taking proper care of himself."

Railroad corporations have heretofore cared little for the comfort of their employees. It is expected that they be ready to undertake any extra work in the way of long runs, often without rest for days, often sending them into strange towns without any care whether they find accommodations for food or a bed to rest in, only caring that they be on hand to take up their journey at the time ordered. Little wonder that men so deprived of proper rest and food are not likely to be vigilant.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, recognizing all this, is about to provide a building for the employes of the railroads centering in the Grand Central depot, New York city, where men may find recreation and rest without running any risks among the temptations of the city.

This building will be 80x40 feet. It will be a substantial structure, with bath rooms, gymnasium and bowling alleys in the basement; reading room, library, room for games and offices on the first floor; a large hall for general meetings and rooms for classes on the second floor, and rooms for janitor's family and sleeping rooms for men coming in late or detained in the city over night, in the upper story. Our exterior view of the building, drawn from the architect's plans, shows that it will be an ornamental neighbor to the great depot, as well as an elegant resort for the hundreds of engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and other men of the rail, who form the floating population of that mighty terminal station.

A NOTABLE WEDDING.

A High-toned Colored Couple Married in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, July 29 —The biggest wedding ever witnessed in Louisiana was celebrated at the Soulouquelat plantation in Iberville Parish yesterday. Few white weddings compare with it. There was a special train from this city for the invited guests. All the cream of the the colored society graced the occasion and not a few white persons of standing were present. As for dresses, few ball rooms have seen anything finer. The contracting parties were Miss Eladie Allain, daughter of a member of the Louisiana legislature, and Prof. Palmerston Landrey, of the Mansfield college, another legislator. The bride's father originally a slave and coachman, is now proprietor of a large sugar plantation.

The policy of the new company at present is to extend its lines to all principal points on the Pacific coast.

SOMETHING FOR MALARIA.

Quinine in Disfavor.

(From Baltimore Morning Herald)

In the Kharkoo region of Russia, quinine is considered of no account for the cure of chills and fever. The Kharkoo doctor catches a mess of live crabs, pours whiskey over them until they become hilariously drunk, and then puts them in a hot oven. After being well dried, they are pulverized, shells and all and administered in drachm doses. Where the crabs most abound in this country, in the waters of the Eastern shore of Maryland and the Eastern shore of Virginia, the inhabitants have long since abandoned the use of quinine and sensibly resort to prevention in the use of pure whisky. In the malarial sections of the great West, Southwest and South, this once famed remedy is now looked upon as worse than the disease. In territories where the virgin sod is first broken, the malarial poison exuding therefrom spreads pestilence far and near. Years ago in the homes of the first settlers, an admixture of whisky and quinine was the favorite dose for the chills, but after years of dosing in this crude manner, quinine has long since been given up and whisky only remains in the flask, for family, and medicinal use. Experience taught these settlers long ago, that the amount of quinine required to drive out the malarial poison in the blood, left in its place, if not a worse poison, a condition of the system made worse instead of better. The effects of the quinine were clearly defined in long continued headaches, disordered stomachs, clouded mental faculties, disturbed sleep, and morbid appetite, and the only virtue discovered in its use they thought attributable to the whiskey in the mixture. The medical profession has very gratefully modified its belief in quinine as a specific. Gaillard's Medical Journal, October, 1885, contains an article by L. B. Anderson, M. D., Norfolk, Va., in which the learned doctor uses this emphatic language. "I hope I may be pardoned for saying that the present empirical use of quinine is worthy of the darkest period of the dark ages. It is a blighting shame and disgrace to our profession." The people exposed to malaria now fortify their system against the approach and inroads of the disease proceeding from it, and by the use of pure unadulterated stimulant ward off attack. Now that Duffy's pure malt whiskey is the only absolutely pure whiskey, free from fusel oil, as has been tested by chemists, it is the recognized cure in malarial attacks and so recognized by the people and the medical profession.

BRIDAL COUPLES

Young and Old—How They Deport Themselves.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—Bridal couples are easily picked out even on the horse cars. The conductors know them well. I saw a conspicuous pair this morning as I came down town. They belonged to the well-to-do village or farmer element, and were "doing" the city for their honeymoon. The bride was large, good-looking, and already taking the lead. She wore the inevitable gray traveling dress, a modish bonnet to match, and carried a light wrap. They entered the car, stopping on the platform to ask the conductor if they were fairly headed for the Brooklyn bridge. The bride made the inquiries. Nobody wondered at that when the bridegroom came into full view from behind her ample figure. He was a little creature, with shrinking manners, a foolishly small nose, silly mouth, weak face, and feeble intellect. She will have to carry him, figuratively speaking, all the days of his life; that was so evident it needed no words to make it understood, and he will get heavier and heavier as the years go on.

There was one vacant seat on one side of the car and another opposite. The bride seated herself and the little husband tried to crowd into the same space. In doing so he almost seated himself on her lap. "Sit over there," she said, a little sharply, pointing to the vacant seat on the other side. He obeyed, looking frightened. A titter ran around the car internally. It died at the hands of politeness before it reached the lips of the passengers. The conductor smiled; but then he suddenly looked down the street and may have seen something funny there. The bride noticed that they were both receiving some attention from the passengers and glared.

"SIT OVER THERE," SHE SAID.

In all probability there were idlers in that car with nothing better to think about than to wonder why that self-assertive, fine-looking woman married that feeble-brained little man. Well, they will never know. Nobody ever did know. Hundreds and thousands of brides have been wondered about, and nobody ever learned the why and wherefore of their becoming brides to inferior husbands. It is doubtful if they knew themselves. Destiny has a finger in it. Fate manages it.

The elderly widower with the young bride comes in for a generous share of comment. Happily he is unconscious of it. His happiness is so engrossing that he never sees outside of the rose-colored area that surrounds him. If he detect any smiles at his expense he attributes them to envy and goes gayly on. The grim dignity of his years has fallen away from him, and something very like the joyousness of youth is on his face. He would be a boy again, sure enough, if others would let him; but they will not. They make sport of his happiness and drive him back to the prim manners of middle-age, and so he "settles down" and grows old with the rest of them, because society will not permit him to keep young.

Newly married pairs frequent the theatres here, and are often noticeable. The elderly ones advertise their bliss far more than the young. They promenade Broadway in unmistakably new and unfamiliar garments, and carry their recently acquired happiness along with them in such overpowering quantities that every one is forced to notice and tempted to comment on it. In the shops they wander like beings from another planet, looking, praising, buying, smiling. The city is a big fair to them, and they have nothing in the world to do but enjoy its wonders.

THE ELDERLY WIDOWER WITH THE YOUNG BRIDE.

Many a flip and quip are passed among the city folk at the expense of the elderly brides and grooms. For my part I never feel like making fun of them. Their bit of happiness, real or fancied, I am glad to see. Many of them bear evidence in their faces of having suffered enough before they reached the paradise they are at present sunning themselves in. Marital happiness is held up in society and literature as the one earthly possession worth striving for. Yet the moment two persons, young or old, enter into it and wear its sign on their faces, they are jeered at by the rest of the world. What is the reason? Is it because they arouse the envy of others, or is it because the people who ridicule them have gone through the same experience and have found it evanescent as the bloom and beauty of the rose?

Ah, those dear, elderly brides and bridegrooms! Who is small minded enough to grudge them their brief day of happiness? Let them enjoy their sedate but blissful honeymoons. Smile on their numerous terms of endearment, their "loves" and "darlings" and "dearests," thinking not that such words belong only to love's young dream. The human heart is never old, and when it becomes young in affection, even though near the grave, rejoice with it, for all pleasures and joys are brief.

And the very youthful couples! Their beautiful faith in the blessedness of the future is something that ought to win commendadation, instead of ridicule. In the story books, when the lovers are safely married and ecstatically happy, everybody is pleased, and the reader gives them a tear of sympathetic joy. In real life everybody laughs at them, and by various cruel ways gives them to understand that the world thinks they are fools.

The world! What is it to them? There is no world outside of themselves. By and by they will enter it—not now. They do not even believe in its existence yet. The outsiders—the jeering, chaffing multitude—will not long let them remain undisturbed in their emotional paradise. They will never rest until these babes of Cupid's woods wake up from their dream of bliss and begin to have trouble. Then they will let them alone, because their experiences have begun to be commonplace.

Here the newly wedded babes wander, unconscious of the sneers, the arching eyebrows, the sly, game-making smiles they excite. They drive in the park; they loiter around the animals in the menagerie; they take trips by boat and trips by land; they look at pictures; they inspect the shops; they attend the poorest plays and find them extravagantly interesting. Where, indeed, do they not go?

In after years, when they have emerged from the rosy mists of love's young dream into the full glare of actual life, they will look back on the blissful days they spent here in a kind of strange wonder that life ever did seem so heavenly. What other days of their lives have they been ready to address, as did Faust the one immortal, passing moment: "Oh, stay! thou art so fair!" GERTRUDE GARRISON.

NEW YORK, May 10th, 1886.
Pond's Extract Co.
Dear Sirs:

I have used POND'S EXTRACT constantly as a rubbing material, and find it to be the best article of the kind I ever used. It removes stiffness and soreness of the muscles like magic, and in my opinion is destined to be the liniment for athletic purposes.

Yours truly, L. E. MYERS.

Pond's Extract is used by all the the leading athletes, and is invaluable for Sprains, Soreness, Stiffness, Bruises, Chafings and all kinds of Pains and Inflammations. It is sold everywhere. Carefully avoid imitations.

At 4 o'clock Sunday morning a furious cyclone sailed over Decatur, dropping low enough to twist off the tops of tall trees, but doing no further damage. It was a close call.

They are Not Sorry.

There is one thing nobody ever regrets—that is, the day they first adopted Parker's Tonic as their regular family medicine. Its range is so wide, and its good effects so sure, that nothing else, except good nursing, are needed in a great majority of cases. Buy it, try it, and afterwards it will not require any praise from us.

Hay Fever.

I have been a great sufferer from hay fever for fifteen years, and have tried various things without doing any good. I read of the many wondrous cures of Ely's Cream Balm and thought I would try once more. In fifteen minutes after one application I felt wonderfully helped. Two weeks ago I commenced using it and now I feel entirely cured. Iti s the greatest discovery ever known or heard of.—Duhamel Clark, Farmer Lee, Mass.

The Wabash is laying quantities of new steel rail, sixty-seven pounds to the yard, on the main line. Eight miles of new rails are now being put down between Wabash and Peru. The old iron on the Detroit division, which has been in service for twelve years, between Denver and Logansport, twenty-one miles, is also being replaced with steel.

In reply to an inquiry as to the history of the old canal, the Indianapolis Times says: "Probably the shortest answer we can make to our correspondent's curious question may be stated in a few words. In 1836 the legislature adopted an internal improvement bill, and the Central was one of the grants. It was intended to connect the Wabash with the Ohio. It ran on the shortest line from Peru to Indianapolis. When the state began her system of internal improvements she adopted a canal line from the Wabash to the Ohio, and the Indiana Central canal was the line. The survey was made about 1837, and came on down through the city on the line of Missouri street. There was a good deal of trouble after the canal came into the city."

A little daughter of Fred Gumpper, of 21 Buchanan street, died last night of cholera infantum and will be buried tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Justice France fined Charles Nathan for maintaining a nuisance and dismissed the case against Jacob Friend. The sanitary policeman filed the affidavits.

"Mail carriers on the Muncie road are in the habit of carrying papers past this city, so they can bring them back from Fort Wayne the next day," says the Bluffton Chronicle.

At about 1 o'clock last night a thief tried to break into the house of Henry Lafrence on West Jefferson street, but was scared away by Mr. Cleary, of the Hoosier Manufacturing company.

A farmer's team frightened at Eckert's sausage machine and ran away in the Home alley this morning. A young lady occupant of the vehicle was spilled out, but she was more scared than hurt.

This was the hottest day of the season and thermometers registered 95 to 99 degrees in the shade, or very near it. The doctors did not report a single case of sunstroke, although in several instances laborers were driven from their work by the intense heat.

Says an Ossian correspondent: "Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bell gave a Misses party at their home on Main street, in honor of Mamie Deam, their neice from Missouri. The guests were Miss Sophia Seaton, of Fort Wayne, Hattie Wilmington, Jennie Henry, Maggie Stine and Mellie Seaton, of Ossian."

The Bluffton Chronicle says: "From the Fort Wayne papers we learn that W. S. Oppenheim is a candidate for joint representative for the counties of Allen and Huntington. Sig is a bright young lawyer and is quite popular in Fort Wayne. His many friends here will look with interest for his endorsement by the democracy of the two counties named.

Mr. William Gaffney is preparing a statement in reply to the charges published against him in the Journal. He was accused of obtaining more money for service as trustee than the law allowed. When his clerk hire is deducted, the figures will not be one cent excessive. His accusers neglected that important feature. Mr. Gaffney cannot be injured, and will come out of this affair with more friends than he ever had.

To save the state democratic convention much trouble and time, two democrats and an Indianapolis News reporter "convened" yesterday and nominated a ticket. At least the democrats fixed up the following slate, which they believe will be indorsed later by the convention: For secretary of state, R. W. Miers, Monroe; treasurer, Tom Byrnes, Vanderburg; clerk of the supreme court, Martin Krueger, Laporte; auditor, Charlie Munson, Allen; attorney general, Hugh D. McMullen, Dearborn; judge of the supreme court, Tom M. Davidson, Montgomery.

FIRE BUGS.

A Daring Attempt to Burn Fred Troutman's Stable.

Fred Troutman lives on Wilt street, where he has a nice home. The neighbors arroused him at 1:30 this morning by shouting "fire" at his door. Troutman hurried out to find his stable ablaze. A few well directed tubs of water quenched the flames and Mr. Troutman congratulated himself. This morning he investigated and found that saturated engine waste had been laid about his barn and shoved under the door. This started the fire which might have taken a block of buildings in the neighborhood. Incendiaries did the work, but for what reason Troutman is at a loss to know. He is a brother of Police Officer John Troutman.

DISTRICT POLITICS.

What the Leaders and Papers are Doing.

The twelfth district has ninety-eight votes in the democratic state convention.

The Columbia City Post says: "The distinguished gentlemen who thought Captain White would shake up the district as soon as nominated, were much mistaken. His selection falls like a dull thud. He was nominated for his money and the people know it."

Hon. Eli W. Brown has resigned the chairmanship of the Whitley county democratic committee, after years of noble work and unprecedented success. Mr. Brown is succeeded by his friend Hon. Wm. F. McNagny and THE SENTINEL wishes him all the success and honor that crowned his predecessor.

Marion county, the highest, has 71 delegates to the state convention, and Ohio county, the lowest, has but three. Allen county is second on the list with forty-four.

"The state democratic convention meets on the 11th of August at Indianapolis. The nearest aspirant, geographically speaking, to a place on the state ticket is Chas. A. Munson, of Fort Wayne, for auditor of state. Mr. Munson is deservedly popular all over the state and his nomination is conceded. He will make a good officer and will greatly strengthen the party," says the Columbia City Post.

Columbia City Post: "Hon. P. S. O'Rourke is undoubtedly a happier man that he was not made a congressional candidate. Last week he started with his family in his private car on the Grand Rapids road for Petoskey, where he can while the hours away pleasantly, while upon the other hand the successful man's life is burdened and made weary with the tortures of politics and politicians. After all there is compensation even in defeat."

There are now four candidates for congress before the people of the Twelfth congressional district of this state, to wit: Judge Lowry, democrat; Capt. J. B. White, republican; Rev. Mr. McPhail, prohibitionist, and Charles S. Shoutz, greenbacker. Judge Lowry represents the brains and Captain White the money bags. The judge will be re-elected.—Valparaiso Messenger.

W. H. Bowser was appointed postmaster at Warsaw last week. THE SENTINEL believed the place belonged to Editor Zimmerman, but the latter gentleman says that Mr. Bowser is a very worthy gentleman and a fit man for the place. This is an example that endears the name of Zimmerman to us and sets an example to the selfish kickers in this district.

A QUESTION ABOUT Brown's Iron Bitters ANSWERED.

The question has probably been asked thousands of times, "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe IRON. Physicians recognize Iron as the best restorative agent known to the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of iron than of any other substance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that iron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS no perfectly satisfactory iron combination had ever been found.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—all other iron medicines do. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS cures Indigestion, Biliousness, Weakness, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neuralgia—for all these ailments Iron is prescribed daily.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, however, does not cure in a minute. Like all other thorough medicines, it acts slowly. When taken by men the first symptom of benefit is renewed energy. The muscles then become firmer, the digestion improves, the bowels are active. In women the effect is usually more rapid and marked. The eyes begin at once to brighten; the skin clears up; healthy color comes to the cheeks; nervousness disappears; functional derangements become regular, and if a nursing mother, abundant sustenance is supplied for the child. Remember Brown's Iron Bitters is the ONLY iron medicine that is not injurious. Physicians and Druggists recommend it.

The Genuine has Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. TAKE NO OTHER.

WASHINGTON.

A Bit of Gossip From the Senate Chamber.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—It is probable the removal of the remains of Chief Justice Chase will take place during the last days of September or early in October.

The senate committee on foreign affairs, had under consideration yesterday at its regular meeting, the extradition treaty recently signed by the representatives of the United States with Great Britain. There seems but little chance of the treaty being considered by the senate at this session.

The chair presented a proclamation by the governor of Utah, relative to the violation of the marriage laws in that territory. Referred to the committee on territories.

Mr. Hoar asked leave to report from the committee on library, a preamble and resolution for the appointment of a committee of five senators (the presiding officer to be one) to consider, formulate and report at the next session of congress, a plan for properly celebrating at the capitol of the republic the centennial anniversary, in 1889, of the adoption of the constitution, and the four hundredth anniversary in 1892, of the discovery of America, by Christopher Columbus. Mr. Hale objected and the resolution went over.

The injunction of secrecy having been removed, the statement is made that the charges against a number of Indiana postmasters who were removed were purely political, and they recommended the confirmation of their successors.

Indiana democrats say a motion will be entered to reconsider the vote in the Hanlon case, so that he, not being rejected when congress adjourns, may be reappointed with more propriety than otherwise.

The following Indiana postmasters were appointed yesterday: John H. Neherr at Reffsburg, Wells county, vice Harrison Burgess, deceased; Wm. B. Gillis at Waterman, Parke county.

The president sent the following nominations to the senate to-day: George J. A. Jenks, of Pennsylvania, solicitor general; Bradley M. Thomas, receiver of public moneys, of East Saginaw, Mich.

President Cleveland has nominated Alvey Adee, of the District of Columbia, to be second assistant secretary of state; E. H. S. Pratt, of Alabama, to be minister to Persia, and George E. Lorenz to be postmaster at Toledo.

The indications continue favorable for the adjournment of congress without day by next Monday. Should the president, however, decide neither to sign nor veto the oleomargerine bill the friends of the measure will seek to postpone the adjournment until next Tuesday on which day it will become a law without the presidental approval.

LAFAYETTE.

Military Encampment Notes—The Prize Drills.

LAFAYETTE, July 29.—The Shephard Light infantry, of Indianapolis, last evening closed the militia drill for the $500 prize. The awards will be made Monday. The Indianapolis Light infantry drilled at nine o'clock this morning for the $1,000 free-for-all prize. Their competitors were the Jackson, Michigan, Guards, company F., First Kentucky legion, Richardson guards, of Indianapolis, and Taylorville, Illinois, Guards. They drilled in the order named. Governor Gray arrived to-day. It is thought that he will create a breeze over the fact that on the encampment gambling devices of every kind are run openly and unmolested.

THE LATE NED BUNTLINE.

The Life Romance of One of the Greatest Romancers.

"Ned Buntline" is dead. What reader of the sensational, hair-raising, blood-curdling penny-awful story papers has not heard of him. Little wonder that he did the work through which he was known, for his career outromanced any of his fictions. It can be but briefly noticed here.

THE LATE E. Z. C. JUDSON.

He was Edward Z. C. Judson, of the great Christian missionary family of that name. His father was a Philadelphia lawyer, in which quiet city this restless spirit was born. His father intended him for a legal light, but the youngster ran away to sea in a ship going around the Horn. On his return home his father endeavored to show him the career that the study of Blackstone might bring him. But without avail; then, making a virtue of the necessity, his father apprenticed his wayward boy to the United States ship Macedonian, obtaining for him a midshipman's position. His fellow-midshipmen, in their youthful would be aristocracy, refused to associate or mess with him on the ground that he had served as a common sailor and was not their equal. He certainly was not, for he proved himself very soon their superior, challenging them all to fight, one after the other, and coming off victorious in each contest. One of his antagonists is now an admiral in the navy. After that there was no more talk about equality. While serving in the navy he rescued the crew of a boat which had been run down by a ferryboat in New York harbor. But it was on land, not on sea, that young Judson's most adventurous period was passed. As an Indian fighter and as a scout in the great civil war he became justly famous. On the plains he met with Capt. Jack Crawford, who regards Ned Buntline as the bravest man he has ever met, while as to his marksmanship there can be no dispute. On shipboard he broke a small bottle suspended from the yard arm with one shot and cut the cord that had held the bottle with the shot following, and years after, in a trial of skill with Buffalo Bill, Texas Jack and several Indian chiefs he took the first prize for quick, sure aim. His adventures among the Indians would fill volumes. He was a great admirer of the Indian character, though he took no stock in "Cooper's Indians," as he called them.

Ned kept himself constantly before the public in some sensational way. He was a leader in the Know-Nothing movement. Was arrested as one of the principals in the Forrest Macready Astor place riots in New York. He was tried before Judge Charles P. Daly, whom Ned had been attacking for years. The judge magnanimously gave him but one year in the penitentiary. He had already begun to fire the youthful heart with his Munchausen tales, and this he continued to his death. No one can estimate the number of stories he wrote. His income from this source averaged $20,000 a year. During the war he was arrested and confined in Fort Lafayette for overstaying his parole. He had tried nearly everything in his time and it was to be expected he would try the stage. This he did, in company with Buffalo Bill, for whom he wrote a play. Their first appearance was in St. Louis, and as it was new business for them, both became stage struck. Buffalo Bill forgot his part, Ned became boggled, and the play ended in a roaring farce.

Of late years Buntline was living on his farm at Stamford, N. Y., where he leaves his fourth wife and a family. He was a model of muscular vigor, as his picture indicates, up to the day of his death.

DEATH OF ISRAEL LEE.

A Sketch of the Life of a Good Citizen and Friend.

At an early hour this morning, after a lingering illness of about eight months, occurred the death of Mr. Israel Lee, master car builder for the Pennsylvania company at this place. Mr. Lee was born in Berks county, Pa., on the 6th day of May, 1822, and died July 29, 1886. He was married at Crestline, Ohio, in 1854, to Miss Rachael J. Leek, who died in March, 1880 in this city. To them were born three sons, all of whom survive them. Maurice M., now a machinist in the Pittsburg shops at this place, Jeffry J., an assistant foreman at the same company's carpenter shops, and Charles W., also an employe of the company.

In 1881 he married Miss Sophie C. Grout, of Adams county, Ind., to whom were born two children, Arthur H., who died in infancy, and Mary L., still living.

Early in 1855 Mr. Lee began his labors for the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad company, at Crestline, Ohio, and in the fall of 1857 was transferred to Fort Wayne as foreman of car inspectors.

In 1862 he was promoted to general foreman of the companies works at Chicago, and about five years later he was again transferred to Fort Wayne as assistant to Mr. Wm. Wadington, after whose death in 1871, Mr. Lee became master car builder for the company at this city, which position he held at the time of his death.

He was a member of the Masonic fraternity as well as that of the I. O. O. F. As a husband and father there was none more devoted and kind than he. It was always his province to render to his superior obedience and submission; to his equals, courtesy and affability; to his inferiors, kindness and condescension.

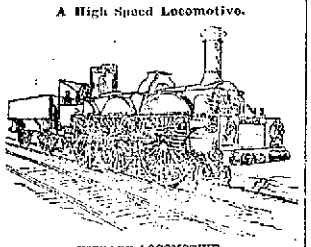
The funeral will take place from the house on next Sunday at 2 o'clock, thence to the Christian chapel, of which church he was a member.

SECRETARY MANNING.

ALBANY, July 29.—Secretary Manning, accompanied by his son Fred, left by the ten o'clock train this morning for Watch Hill. He did not use his cane in walking from the depot to the dining room car, a distance of about seventy feet.

His right arm rested on Mrs. Manning's arm. Mrs. Manning moved slightly in advance of her husband and guided his short and feeble steps. Those who saw him remarked upon his feeble appearance.

A High Speed Locomotive.



ESTRADE LOCOMOTIVE.

Civil engineers in our sister republic across the ocean have long been puzzling their brains over a locomotive that can be propelled easily and safely at a speed of seventy-five miles an hour. M. Estrade has designed one which is about completed and will shortly be tested.

The illustration gives a general idea of its construction. The principal dimensions are as follows: Total length, 33 feet; width between longitudinals, 4 feet; diameter of the wheels, 8½ feet; weight of engine, empty, 38 tons; weight of engine, loaded, 42 tons.

French engineers are in raptures over this machine, and one of them says:

It is impossible not to be struck by the character of grandeur and power of this beautiful engine, with its six driving wheels, of one diameter in common of 8½ feet, mounted upon three coupled axles. The inventor's idea, it will be remembered, consists in generalizing the use of wheels of large diameter, in the extension, to high speeds, of the coupling of the axles of the motor, in the adoption of a new and well studied style of double suspension.

It does not appear doubtful that it will be possible to reach the high speeds of from seventy-two to seventy-eight miles, for which this locomotive has been constructed. The equal size of the locomotive wheels, and of those of the cars, will, doubtless, in a great measure diminish the resistance of friction, and permit of gaining in speed. It must be noted that the fore axle of the locomotive, although coupled with the others, is provided with hinged grease boxes. On properly slowing up, then, it does not seem that it will be impossible to turn curves of the usual radius. This granted, we can appreciate what peculiar services will be rendered by rolling stock of this kind in the India mail service and on the great rectilinear lines of Russia, Asia and America, and everywhere, in fact, where it is desirable to cross with exceeding rapidity great desert spaces between centers of population.

First lord of the administration, Lord George Hamilton.

Lord high chancellor, Baron Halesbury.

Secretary for India, Right Hon. Frederick Arthur Stanley.

Prime minister and first Lord of the treasury, Marquis Salisbury.

Lord lieutenant of Ireland, Marquis Londonderry.

IRISH PRESS COMMENT.

DUBLIN, July 29.—The United-Ireland to-day says: "The truce with the landlords is shattered, but the Irish people have not the least intention to estrange the English masses. It would be impossible to produce a more eloquent example of policy ramming English rule down Irish throats than is afforded by the Marquis of Salisbury's appointment as the Irish viceroy of the Marquis of Londonderry inheriting as he does, the blood and name of the cut-throat and hideous Castlereagh.

The Freeman's Journal says: The appointment of Lord Londonderry viceroy of Ireland and of Sir Michael Hicks Beach chief secretary, is ominious or coercion. Irishmen must be prepared for this. The loyalist press is delighted over the appointment of Lord Londonderry to lord lieutenancy. The city is placarded with appeals to Irishmen to assemble in thou thousands to make the greatest demonstration possible on the occasion of the departure of Lord Lieutenant Aberdeen and his wife from Ireland next week.

CORN.

The Market Excited and Prices Away Up.

CHICAGO, July 29.—There was another excited opening to-day. While the official close last night was at 45c for September, it sold up to 46¼ before dark. This morning early there were rumored sales on the curb as high as 48c, but they could not be located. September was opened officially at 47c, though at the same moment it was selling at 46¼. The prices brought out such free offerings that values soon fell to 46¼.

CHOICE BITS.

The News That is Culled for the "Sentinel" Readers.

The resignation of Benedict Burns, as city clerk of Bluffton, was not accepted until he straightens up his clerical accounts.

The Indiana trotting and pacing horse breeder's association will hold their annual race meeting at Indianapolis on August 3, 4 and 5. Large amounts in stake money are offered.

Ex-Senator and Mrs. McDonald have left Indianapolis for the east. Mrs. McDonald will remain at Deer Park for the present, as Mr. McDonald has important business in Washington just now. Later in the season they will spend some time at Saratoga.

The Bluffton gas well project is liable to end in litigation. The sub-contractors have abandoned the well at a depth of about 1,120 feet. It seems the contractor, Mr. Stewart, had no binding contract on them to carry out the agreement between himself and the stockholders.

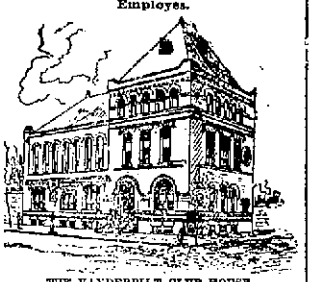
Mr. I. Gushard was elected one of the commissioners of Wabash county in the year 1884 and will take his office this fall. He has just renounced republicanism and joined the prohibition party. He believes the republican party has outlived its usefulness and thinks it a sinking ship.

Hon. Cyrus B. Tulley, of Columbia City, has concluded to give up the practice of law and partially retire from active life. He has sold his office to Mr. W. A. Davis, who will take possession August 2d, 1886. Mr. Tulley has been a leading member of the Whitley county bar for seventeen years past.

The republican assessor of Indianapolis made his returns last Wednesday and they were so unjust that they were set aside and another appraisement was ordered, and will likely be completed when it is too late for this years taxation. Gov. Porter was one of the complainants. He paid a short time ago $5,800 for his residence and it was assessed at $7,500.

A RAILROAD CLUB HOUSE.

The Gift of Cornelius Vanderbilt to His Employes.



THE VANDERBILT CLUB HOUSE.

The number of railroad accidents due to the unfitness of railroad employes through unsteady habits will of course never be known, yet it is a well understood fact among railroad managers that in the major part of the accidents due to negligence, investigation showed incidentally, though the fact was considered hardly worthy of notice, that the unfortunate employe "had not been taking proper care of himself."

Railroad corporations have heretofore cared little for the comfort of their employees. It is expected that they be ready to undertake any extra work in the way of long runs, often without rest for days, often sending them into strange towns without any care whether they find accommodations for food or a bed to rest in, only caring that they be on hand to take up their journey at the time ordered. Little wonder that men so deprived of proper rest and food are not likely to be vigilant.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, recognizing all this, is about to provide a building for the employes of the railroads centering in the Grand Central depot, New York city, where men may find recreation and rest without running any risks among the temptations of the city.

This building will be 80x40 feet. It will be a substantial structure, with bath rooms, gymnasium and bowling alleys in the basement; reading room, library, room for games and offices on the first floor; a large hall for general meetings and rooms for classes on the second floor, and rooms for janitor's family and sleeping rooms for men coming in late or detained in the city over night, in the upper story. Our exterior view of the building, drawn from the architect's plans, shows that it will be an ornamental neighbor to the great depot, as well as an elegant resort for the hundreds of engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and other men of the rail, who form the floating population of that mighty terminal station.

A NOTABLE WEDDING.

A High-toned Colored Couple Married in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, July 29.—The biggest wedding ever witnessed in Louisiana was celebrated at the Sonlonquelat plantation in Iberville Parish yesterday. Few white weddings compare with it. There was a special train from this city for the invited guests. All the cream of the the colored society graced the occasion and not a few white persons of standing were present. As for dresses, few ball rooms have seen anything finer. The contracting parties were Miss Elodie Allain, daughter of a member of the Louisiana legislature, and Prof. Palmerston Landrey, of the Mansfield college, another legislator. The bride's father originally a slave and coachman, is now proprietor of a large sugar plantation.

Your special committee, to whom was referred the assessment of benefits to property for the construction of a 12 inch sewer in the alley between Harrison and Webster streets, from the center of Highland street to the south line of Melita street, respectfully report that the cost of said sewer, less connections, is $81.40, which we have assessed against the within described property by the amounts set opposite the several descriptions.

SOMETHING FOR MALARIA.

Quinine in Distavor.

(From Baltimore Morning Herald)

In the Kharkoo region of Russia, quinine is considered of no account for the cure of chills and fever. The Kharkoo doctor catches a mess of live crabs, pours whiskey over them until they become hilariously drunk, and then puts them in a hot oven. After being well dried, they are pulverized, shells and all and administered in drachm doses. Where the crabs most abound in this country, in the waters of the Eastern shore of Maryland and the Eastern shore of Virginia, the inhabitants have long since abandoned the use of quinine and sensibly resort to prevention in the use of pure whisky. In the malarial sections of the great West, Southwest and South, this once famed remedy is now looked upon as worse than the disease. In territories where the virgin sod is first broken, the malarial poison exuding therefrom spreads pestilence far and near. Years ago in the homes of the first settlers, an admixture of whisky and quinine was the favorite dose for the chills, but after years of dosing in this crude manner, quinine has long since been given up and whisky only remains in the flask, for family, and medicinal use. Experience taught these settlers long ago, that the amount of quinine required to drive out the malarial poison in the blood, left in its place, if not a worse poison, a condition of the system made worse instead of better. The effects of the quinine were clearly defined in long continued headaches, disordered stomachs, clouded mental faculties, disturbed sleep, and morbid appetite, and the only virtue discovered in its use they thought attributable to the whiskey in the mixture. The medical profession has very gratefully modified its belief in quinine as a specific. Gaillard's Medical Journal, October, 1885, contains an article by L. B. Anderson, M. D., Norfolk, Va., in which the learned doctor uses this emphatic language. "I hope I may be pardoned for saying that the present empirical use of quinine is worthy of the darkest period of the dark ages. It is a blighting shame and disgrace to our profession." The people exposed to malaria now fortify their system against the approach and inroads of the disease proceeding from it, and by the use of pure unadulterated stimulant ward off attack. Now that Duffy's pure malt whiskey is the only absolutely pure whiskey, free from fusel oil, as has been tested by chemists, it is the recognized cure in malarial attacks and so recognized by the people and the medical profession.

BRIDAL COUPLES

Young and Old—How They Deport Themselves.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, July 30.—Bridal couples are easily picked out even on the horse cars. The conductors know them well. I saw a conspicuous pair this morning as I came down town. They belonged to the well-to-do village or farmer element, and were "doing" the city for their honeymoon. The bride was large, good-looking, and already taking the lead. She wore the inevitable gray traveling dress, a modish bonnet to match, and carried a light wrap. They entered the car, stopping on the platform to ask the conductor if they were fairly headed for the Brooklyn bridge. The bride made the inquiries. Nobody wondered at that when the bridegroom came into full view from behind her ample figure. He was a little creature, with shrinking manners, a foolishly small nose, silly mouth, weak face, and feeble intellect. She will have to carry him, figuratively speaking, all the days of his life; that was so evident it needed no words to make it understood, and he will get heavier and heavier as the years go on.

There was one vacant seat on one side of the car and another opposite. The bride seated herself and the little husband tried to crowd into the same space. In doing so he almost seated himself on her lap. "Sit over there," she said, a little sharply, pointing to the vacant seat on the other side. He obeyed, looking frightened. A titter ran around the car internally. It died at the hands of politeness before it reached the lips of the passengers. The conductor smiled; but then he suddenly looked down the street and may have seen something funny there. The bride noticed that they were both receiving some attention from the passengers and glared.

"SIT OVER THERE," SHE SAID.

In all probability there were idlers in that car with nothing better to think about than to wonder why that self-assertive, fine-looking woman married that feeble-brained little man. Well, they will never know. Nobody ever did know. Hundreds and thousands of brides have been wondered about, and nobody ever learned the why and wherefore of their becoming brides to inferior husbands. It is doubtful if they know themselves. Destiny has a finger in it. Fate manages it.

The elderly widower with the young bride comes in for a generous share of comment. Happily he is unconscious of it. His happiness is so engrossing that he never sees outside of the rose-colored area that surrounds him. If he detect any smiles at his expense he attributes them to envy and goes gayly on. The grim dignity of his years has fallen away from him, and something very like the joyousness of youth is on his face. He would be a boy again, sure enough, if others would let him; but they will not. They make sport of his happiness and drive him back to the prim manners of middle-age, and so he "settles down" and grows old with the rest of them, because society will not permit him to keep young.

Newly married pairs frequent the theatres here, and are often noticeable. The elderly ones advertise their bliss far more than the young. They promenade Broadway in unmistakably new and unfamiliar garments, and carry their recently acquired happiness along with them in such overpowering quantities that every one is forced to notice and tempted to comment on it. In the shops they wander like beings from another planet, looking, praising, buying, smiling. The city is a big fair to them, and they have nothing in the world to do but enjoy its wonders.

THE ELDERLY WIDOWER WITH THE YOUNG BRIDE.

Many a flip and quip are passed among the city folk at the expense of the elderly brides and grooms. For my part I never feel like making fun of them. Their bit of happiness, real or fancied, I am glad to see. Many of them bear evidence in their faces of having suffered enough before they reached the paradise they are at present sunning themselves in. Marital happiness is held up in society and literature as the one earthly possession worth striving for. Yet the moment two persons, young or old, enter into it and wear its sign on their faces, they are jeered at by the rest of the world. What is the reason? Is it because they arouse the envy of others, or is it because the people who ridicule them have gone through the same experience and have found it evanescent as the bloom and beauty of the rose?

Ah, those dear, elderly brides and bridegrooms! Who is small minded enough to grudge them their brief day of happiness! Let them enjoy their sedate but blissful honeymoons. Smile on their numerous terms of endearment, their "loves" and "darlings" and "dearests," thinking not that such words belong only to love's young dream. The human heart is never old, and when it becomes young in affection, even though near the grave, rejoice with it, for all pleasures and joys are brief.

And the very youthful couples! Their beautiful faith in the blessedness of the future is something that ought to win commendation, instead of ridicule. In the story books, when the lovers are safely married and ecstatically happy, everybody is pleased, and the reader gives them a tear of sympathetic joy. In real life everybody laughs at them, and by various cruel ways gives them to understand that the world thinks they are fools.

The world! What is it to them? There is no world outside of themselves. By and by they will enter it—not now. They do not even believe in its existence yet. The outsiders—the jeering, chatting multitude—will not long let them remain undisturbed in their emotional paradise. They will never rest until these babes of Cupid's woods wake up from their dream of bliss and begin to have trouble. Then they will let them alone, because their experiences have begun to be commonplace.

Here the newly wedded babes wander, unconscious of the sneers, the arching eyebrows, the sly, game-making smiles they excite. They drive in the park; they loiter around the animals in the menagerie; they take trips by boat and trips by land; they look at pictures; they inspect the shops; they attend the poorest plays and find them extravagantly interesting. Where, indeed, do they not go?

In after years, when they have emerged from the rosy mists of lovely young dream into the full glare of actual life, they will look back on the blissful days they spent here in a kind of strange wonder that life ever did seem so heavenly. What other days of their lives have they been ready to address, as did Faust the one immortal, passing moment: "Oh, stay! thou art so fair!" GERTRUDE GARRISON.

NEW YORK, May 10th, 1886.
Pond's Extract Co.
Dear Sirs:

I have used POND'S EXTRACT constantly as a rubbing material, and find it to be the best article of the kind I ever used. It removes stiffness and soreness of the muscles like magic, and in my opinion is destined to be the liniment for athletic purposes.

Yours truly, L. E. MYERS.

Pond's Extract is used by all the leading athletes, and is invaluable for Sprains, Soreness, Stiffness, Bruises, Chafings and all kinds of Pains and Inflammations. It is sold everywhere. Carefully avoid imitations.

At 4 o'clock Sunday morning a furious cyclone sailed over Decatur, dropping low enough to twist off the tops of tall trees, but doing no further damage. It was a close call.

The universal verdict; "The Hop Plaster is the best porous plaster ever made." Only 25 cents.

It is proposed by a series of cheap dams to convert the stream that ripples through Glen Miller, near Richmond, into a succession of pools and waterfalls.

They are Not Sorry.

There is one thing nobody ever regrets—that is, the day they first adopted Parker's Tonic as their regular family medicine. Its range is so wide, and its good effects so sure, that nothing else, except good nursing, are needed in a great majority of cases. Buy it, try it, and afterwards it will not require any praise from us.

Hay Fever.

I have been a great sufferer from hay fever for fifteen years, and have tried various things without doing any good. I read of the many wondrous cures of Ely's Cream Balm and thought I would try once more. In fifteen minutes after one application I felt wonderfully helped. Two weeks ago I commenced using it and now I feel entirely cured. It is the greatest discovery ever known or heard of.—Duhamel Clark, Farmer Lee, Mass.

The Wabash is laying quantities of new steel rail, sixty-seven pounds to the yard, on the main line. Eight miles of new rails are now being put down between Wabash and Peru. The old iron on the Detroit division, which has been in service for twelve years, between Denver and Logansport, twenty-one miles, is also being replaced with steel.

In reply to an inquiry as to the history of the old canal, the Indianapolis Times says: "Probably the shortest answer we can make to our correspondent's curious question may be stated in a few words. In 1836 the legislature adopted an internal improvement bill, and the Central was one of the grants. It was intended to connect the Wabash with the Ohio. It ran on the shortest line from Peru to Indianapolis. When the state began her system of internal improvements she adopted a canal line from the Wabash to the Ohio, and the Indiana Central canal was the line. The survey was made about 1837, and came on down through the city on the line of Missouri street. There was a good deal of trouble after the canal came into the city."

A little daughter of Fred Gumpper, of 21 Buchanan street, died last night of cholera infantum and will be buried to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Justice France fined Charles Nathan for maintaining a nuisance and dismissed the case against Jacob Friend. The sanitary policeman filed the affidavits.

"Mail carriers on the Muncie road are in the habit of carrying papers past this city, so they can bring them back from Fort Wayne the next day," says the Bluffton Chronicle.

At about 1 o'clock last night a thief tried to break into the house of Henry Lafrence on West Jefferson street, but was scared away by Mr. Cleary, of the Hoosier Manufacturing company.

A farmer's team frightened at Eckert's sausage machine and ran away in the Home alley this morning. A young lady occupant of the vehicle was spilled out, but she was more scared than hurt.

The Bluffton Chronicle says: "From the Fort Wayne papers we learn that W. S. Oppenheim is a candidate for joint representative for the counties of Allen and Huntington. Sig is a bright young lawyer and is quite popular in Fort Wayne. His many friends here will look with interest for his endorsement by the democracy of the two counties named.

Mr. William Gaffney is preparing a statement in reply to the charges published against him in the Journal. He was accused of obtaining more money for service as trustee than the law allowed. When his clerk hire is deducted, the figures will not be one cent excessive. His accusers neglected that important feature. Mr. Gaffney cannot be injured, and will come out of this affair with more friends than he ever had.

To save the state democratic convention much trouble and time, two democrats and an Indianapolis News reporter "convened" yesterday and nominated a ticket. At least the democrats fixed up the following slate, which they believe will be indorsed later by the convention: For secretary of state, R. W. Miers, Monroe; treasurer, Tom Byrnes, Vanderburg; clerk of the supreme court, Martin Krueger, Laporte; auditor, Charlie Munson, Allen; attorney general, Hugh D. McMullen, Dearborn; judge of the supreme court, Tom M. Davidson, Montgomery.

FIRE BUGS.

A Daring Attempt to Burn Fred Troutman's Stable.

Fred Troutman lives on Wilt street, where he has a nice home. The neighbors arroused him at 1:30 this morning by shouting "fire" at his door. Troutman hurried out to find his stable ablaze. A few well directed tubs of water quenched the flames and Mr. Troutman congratulated himself. This morning he investigated and found that saturated engine waste had been laid about his barn and shoved under the door. This started the fire which might have taken a block of buildings in the neighborhood. Incendiaries did the work, but for what reason Troutman is at a loss to know. He is a brother of Police Officer John Troutman.

DISTRICT POLITICS.

What the Leaders and Papers are Doing.

The twelfth district has ninety-eight votes in the democratic state convention.

The Columbia City Post says: "The distinguished gentlemen who thought Captain White would shake up the district as soon as nominated," were much mistaken. His selection falls like a dull thud. He was nominated for his money and the people know it."

Hon. Eli W. Brown has resigned the chairmanship of the Whitley county democratic committee, after years of noble work and unprecedented success. Mr. Brown is succeeded by his friend Hon. Wm. F. McNagny and THE SENTINEL wishes him all the success and honor that crowned his predecessor.

Marion county, the highest, has 71 delegates to the state convention, and Ohio county, the lowest, has but three. Allen county is second on the list with forty-four.

"The state democratic convention meets on the 11th of August at Indianapolis. The nearest aspirant, geographically speaking, to a place on the state ticket is Chas. A. Munson, of Fort Wayne, for auditor of state. Mr. Munson is deservedly popular all over the state and his nomination is conceded. He will make a good officer and will greatly strengthen the party," says the Columbia City Post.

Columbia City Post: "Hon. P. S. O'Rourke is undoubtedly a happier man that he was not made a congressional candidate. Last week he started with his family in his private car on the Grand Rapids road for Petoskey, where he can while the hours away pleasantly, while upon the other hand the successful man's life is burdened and made weary with the tortures of politics and politicians. After all there is compensation even in defeat."

There are now four candidates for congress before the people of the Twelfth congressional district of this state, to wit: Judge Lowry, democrat; Capt. J. B. White, republican; Rev. Mr. McPhail, prohibitionist, and Charles S. Shoutz, greenbacker. Judge Lowry represents the brains and Captain White the money bags. The judge will be re-elected.—Valparaiso Messenger.

W. H. Bowser was appointed postmaster at Warsaw last week. THE SENTINEL believed the place belonged to Editor Zimmerman, but the latter gentleman says that Mr. Bowser is a very worthy gentleman and a fit man for the place. This is an example that endears the name of Zimmerman to us and sets an example to the selfish kickers in this district.

A QUESTION ABOUT Brown's Iron Bitters ANSWERED.

The question has probably been asked thousands of times, "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe IRON. Physicians recognize Iron as the best restorative agent known to the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of iron than of any other substance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that iron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS no perfect, satisfactory iron combination had ever been found.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—all other iron medicines do. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS cures Indigestion, Biliousness, Weakness, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neuralgia—for all these ailments iron is prescribed daily.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, however, does not cure in a minute. Like all other thorough medicines, it acts slowly. When taken by men the first symptom of benefit is restored energy. The muscles then become firmer, the digestion improves, the bowels are active. In women the first is usually more rapid and marked. The eyes begin at once to brighten; the skin clears up; healthy color comes to the cheeks; nervousness disappears; functional derangements become regular, and if a nursing mother, abundant sustenance is supplied for the child. Remember Brown's Iron Bitters is the ONLY iron medicine that is not injurious. Physicians and Druggists recommend it.
